GUIDELINES FOR PARENTS WITH CHILDREN (12 years and below)

Below are TACMC's recommendations on maintaining spiritual curriculum and learning at home, especially during this period when church and church school classes will be stopped for an unforeseeable period of time.

1. Foundation: Maintain weekly Sunday home worship

We acknowledge that one of the best ways children learn is through modeling, and modeling through their primary caregivers. Therefore, at the very baseline of spiritual parenting is to maintain the weekly rhythm of worship every Sunday. As children observe how parents prepare the space and their hearts for Sunday worship, they learn that worship is consistent no matter the circumstances.

Although home worship may be challenging for parents with young children, we still encourage that you keep up with Sunday home worship! We understand that it is tough! But do press on! At the very core is the building of habits: we worship God as a family, as a church every Sunday.

2. Supplementing worship and bible time

After setting the foundation of weekly home worship, you may further supplement your child's spiritual learning by setting aside additional time for worship and bible stories.

Bible StoryTime is a YouTube channel specially created by our children's ministry staff and it provides weekly bite-sized bible lessons for children.

CS teachers have also curated worship playlists, both in English and Mandarin, for parents to play at home. (Playlists are hosted from Bible StoryTime)
